Kindergarten students at Waveland Elementary enjoy the school's new playground Monday after a ribbon cutting ceremony. The playground was built Saturday by volunteers with funds and materials collected by Rhonda Honegger of Williamsburg, Va. Honegger and Operation Colonial Friends enlisted the aid of Williamsburg-area schoolchildren, who conducted a "pizzazz bank" change drive and collected more than $9,000; and the Williamsburg-area business community.

FEMA group sites have been a hot button topic of late in Hancock County. Currently, there are six group sites in Hancock County that house hundreds of trailers for displaced residents. City and county leaders have expressed concerns about the long term impacts of these sites, as well as crime and community reaction. For right now, the sites are a welcome relief for those who reside in them, and local leaders admit that there have been few problems.

"To my knowledge there have not been any problems with any of the group sites," said Bay St. Louis

FEMA announces final extension of hotel program

The Department of Homeland Security's Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) today announced all Hurricane Katrina and Rita evacuees in the FEMA hotel/motel direct bill program will be subsidized by the federal program through at least Feb. 7 as they continue to make longer-term housing arrangements, consistent with a recent Court Order. FEMA also announced it will begin using a new authorization code process immediately to provide direct-bill hotel assistance beyond Feb. 7 to Hurricane Katrina and Rita evacuees on a case-by-case basis.

Evacuees in hotels and motels must contact FEMA by January 30 at 1-800-621-FEMA (TTY 1-800-462-7585) to receive a unique authorization code that must be presented to a hotel or motel to extend the federal subsidy for their hotel stay beyond the night of Feb. 6. FEMA payments for hotel or motel rooms will end on February 7 for those evacuees who do not contact FEMA for an authorization code. The code will also immediately be required for evacuees who change hotels or are checking in for the first time between now and Feb. 7.

"Great progress has been made across the country in helping families make the move out of hotels and motels into more comfortable, longer-term housing—a critical step in the road to recovery," said Acting FEMA Director David Paulison. "We want to be sure that we are flexible, but aggressive in helping individuals and families with all of the FEMA assistance they are eligible to receive and make this important transition to a better quality of life. This authorization code process will help us work toward ensuring that no one eligible for assistance slips through the cracks."

The FEMA authorization code program has a few, simple important dates:

- February 7, 2006. If an evacuee does not get an authorization code by Jan. 30, 2006, FEMA will stop paying for that hotel room on Feb. 7, 2006.

- February 13, 2006. If an evacuee gets an authorization code by Jan. 30, 2006, FEMA will continue to pay for that hotel room until at least Feb. 13, 2006.

- When an evacuee calls for their authorization code, FEMA will let them know when FEMA will stop paying for their hotel room.

It is important that EVERY evacuee household in a hotel contact FEMA, as soon as possible, at 1-800-621-FEMA (TTY 1-800-462-7585) to obtain an authorization code. If eligible, evacuees may receive cash rental assistance from FEMA for up to 18 months. Evacuees DO NOT need to complete a Small Business Administration loan application to be eligible for FEMA housing assistance.

The authorization code will allow FEMA to work closely with families to ensure they are registered with FEMA for assistance and to ensure they are fully processed for rental assistance eligibility before making the transition to longer-term housing. Once a family has their unique authorization code, they will be authorized for a hotel reimbursement extension through at least Feb. 13—two weeks following Jan. 30—while FEMA processes their application. And in every case, FEMA will fund the hotel or motel room for evacuees for two weeks after they have received a determination on their request for assistance from FEMA—whether they are eligible to receive rental assistance or not.

More than 1,300 FEMA employees and partners, including 800 Community Relations strike force staff and 500 call center staff, are working directly with evacuees to help understand their options for moving out of hotels and motels and into longer-term homes, such as apartments. HHS provides energy assistance funds for low-income families

THE ECHO

HHS Secretary Mike Leavitt has announced $623,208 in emergency contingency funds to Mississippi that will help families in need pay their heating and energy bills this winter. The funding to Mississippi is part of $100 million in emergency contingency funds nationwide to states, tribes and territories that will help families in need pay their heating and energy bills this winter. In addition, HHS will now make available up to 100 percent of states' remaining block grant funds -- which total $633 million -- for a combined total of $733 million in available resources. These funds are administered by the Administration for Children and Families through the Low Income Home Energy Assistance Program (LIHEAP).

"These funds will make a positive difference for many low-income families in Mississippi," Secretary Leavitt said. "The Bush Administration is committed to helping those in need in Mississippi to ensure their homes are kept warm during the winter months."

HHS Assistant Secretary for Children and Families Wade F. Horn, Ph.D. added, "LIHEAP helps millions of America's most needy families maintain a healthy temperature in their homes. This aid to Mississippi is especially timely given relatively high fuel prices and continued cold temperatures throughout much of the nation."

In addition, the Federal government has another $101 million that remains available for crises through the emergency contingency fund.

Each year, almost 5 million low-income households across the country receive LIHEAP assistance. LIHEAP helps eligible families pay for home heating and insulation in winter and cooling their homes in the warmer months. States have already received $1.3 billion in annual block grant funds in the first quarter of FY 2006 under a continuing resolution.

Individuals interested in applying for LIHEAP assistance should contact their local/state LIHEAP agency. For more information, go to: <http://www.acf.hhs.gov/programs/liheap/> or <http://www.acf.hhs.gov/programs/liheap/brochure.html>.

To see the total amount given to each state, view: http://www.acf.hhs.gov/news/press/2005/liheap_funding_0106.htm.

Mayor Eddie Favre. "Everything is going smooth, and hopefully that will continue."

Andee Lakey, an employee of Hancock County, waited over four months before his trailer was delivered to the Hwy. 90 group site next to Gulf South Urgent care. Lakey said that he has been impressed with the site, and glad to back in Bay St. Louis.

"I was staying with friends in Gulfport, but it feels good to be back home," Lakey said. "I like the way that the group site is set up. It seems to be neat, orderly, and quiet."

As of Jan. 9, FEMA reported that 6,495 trailer have been delivered to private residents, and 681 trailers are housed on group commercial sites. Mark Raphael of FEMA said the 7,176 that trailers have been delivered have come close to meeting the needs of all of the eligible applicants, but FEMA is also trying to anticipate the number of people who will be returning to Hancock County in the near future.

The Urgent Care site has already filled 137 of its 168 trailers. The site was funded by FEMA and Stennis Space Center for their employees who were displaced from Katrina. The park is now filling it's numbers with other county residents. The site has a fence around it on all sides, and FEMA provides 24-hour security. Residents of the group site are not required to pay anything for staying there.

"We have not had any problems as of yet," said one security guard. "The people here are pretty well behaved, and I think they are just happy to have a place to stay," she said.

"Everything is running well in Hancock County," Raphael said. "We have talked to the people, and everything has been quiet. The few problems that we have had are no more than one would expect if a group was together in any circumstance."

Sheriff Steve Garber said that his office has not have nearly the problems out of the group sites in the county as he expected when they were built.

"We had a spike in domestic violence at first, and there were some drug bust as well, but I think that things are going well right now," Garber said. "We have a zero tolerance policy, and I think that it has worked because we have not had too many problems of late."

One question on the minds of group sites is weather or not they will have to leave after the 18 month deadline is complete. The deadline is 18 months from Aug 29.

"FEMA understands that deadlines are not set in concrete," Raphael said. "FEMA is not going to throw anyone out. After the 18 months is over we will look at each situation, and try to get the people into a more permanent place, but every situation will be different."

Raphael to the Echo that any resident who has not gotten their FEMA trailer yet can speed up the process by going into a group site first.

"If someone goes to a group site, then they can move their trailer to a private location later. If anyone is in need of temporary housing then they should contact us at the Emergency Operations Center 228-466-8200, or at 1-800-621-FEMA.

gone on — metal huts now replace what were once vibrant and vivacious places of worship.

"The church is not the building, but rather it is the people," said Elizabeth Wheatley.

Wheatley is the acting priest at Christ Episcopal, and her enthusiasm about bringing Christ Episcopal back transcends the destruction and rubble that are the only physical things left at the site.

"This church is a source of strength, grounding and hope to the people here. I am passionate and humbled by the opportunity here. There is a lot of hope and pride here," Wheatley said.

Wheatley has been a priest for six years now, and she is from Greenwood Ms. Wheatley actually interviewed for the position at Christ Episcopal the weekend before Katrina struck. After the storm she was appointed by the Bishop of Jackson, Duncan Gray. Wheatley said that she had the option to turn down the position, but she never thought twice about it, and landed in Bay St. Louis a few day later.

"My first thought was that I just could not believe it. I was speechless, when I saw what had happened to the church and school, there was just nothing left," Wheatley said.

Wheatley said that temporary church was a gift from other parishes, and constructed was done in November. So far the temporary church has gotten good reviews from members of the congregation. The first services in the building were held on Jan 1, but services have been taking place at the church site since the first weekend after the storm.

"We had about 75 people last week," Wheatley said. "I was told that 90 to 100 was normal, so that was a good sign."

As for the rebuilding of the church, Wheatley says that it will be a community effort.

"This will not be a solo job," Wheatley said.

"We will have conversations with the congregation once they are settled. We are hoping that we can make a decision within six months, but one thing is for sure, Christ Episcopal will be back."

Members of the St. Clare church have echoed many of the same things that Christ Episcopal has. St. Clare was destroyed along with the Elementary School at the site. While the school at Christ Episcopal was only use by the Bay-Waveland School District as an alternative school, the St. Claire school was a fully functional Elementary school, funded by the Diocese of Biloxi.

Principal Mark Cumella has seen his school reopen in temporary classrooms. Although the future of the school is still in question, Cumella is optimistic about the situation.

"It's been good to get back to St. Clare," Cumella said. "Having school here gives the children a sense of normalcy and stability. We have continue to thrive as a community, and we are just so thankful for all of the generous support from people local and across the country."

Cumella said that the ultimate decision on the future of the school is up to the Bishop, but the school is going to be open throughout the rest of the school year for sure.

Cumella said that out of 174 students, 117 have returned. Cumella expects that number to climb even higher as the school year goes on. The school reopened at the St. Clare site on Oct 31, and all but two teachers have returned.

Cumella believes that students and teachers alike are adjusting to their new surroundings.

"We are adjusting about as good as possible under the circumstances," Cumella said. "We wanted to get back here, and everyone is excited about the future at St. Clare."

Cuevas' Quotes

by Ellis C. Cuevas

Tighten your belts now!

"Belt-tightening" is a phrase we will be hearing from political leaders for several years to come.

The main reason for belt-tightening will be because of the loss of tax revenues.

Hancock County Tax Assessor-Collector Jimmie Ladner last week estimated the county's tax base has been cut in half.

I wonder how much Bay St. Louis and Waveland have lost in tax base. That figure is probably much higher than the county's loss.

On the bright side, hopefully, extra money will soon be going to local government as well as home and business owners so we can all start rebuilding.

One thing for sure, there is a lack of builders, carpenters, roofers, plumbers, mechanical installers, masons, etc. Folks have to wait to get help.

I have a feeling many more of the above technicians will be coming to our area as they find the demand for their skills.

Looking for a way to earn a few extra dollars? You may have a skill the City-County Education Program can use. As always, all types of computer skills are among the many types the program is seeking.

Our community is also blessed with so many people with arts and craft skills. I'm sure there should be someone out there interested in teaching their talents to others.

The City-County Community Education Program has been around for several years and has been a benefit to hundreds of residents.

If you feel you have the expertise, why not give a call to Kim Necaise at 228-255-0376; or send a resume to 17304 Hwy. 603, Kiln, MS 39556.

Don't forget the Chamber's annual meeting set for Jan. 20 at 8 a.m. at the Diamondhead Community Center.

U.S. Congressman Gene Taylor will be the keynote speaker. He will have the latest information on the federal hurricane recovery package.

Amy 'tuck' 'em by surprise

In legislative parlance, you could say Amy "tuck" everybody at the Capitol by surprise.

The Amy in question, of course, is Republican Lt. Gov. Amy Tuck who stunned state lawmakers two days after the 2006 session convened by advocating an increase in the cigarette tax to $1-per-pack and a phased-out elimination of the state's inequitable 7-cent state sales tax on groceries by 2014.

Then, the very next day, the Senate, over which Tuck presides and where the "T" word couldn't be uttered the past three years, passed the tax hike/cut bill by a veto-proof margin.

It's important to mention the bill's veto-proof passage because Gov. Haley Barbour, the Republican guy in the center office with the veto pen, has vowed to use it if there's even a scent of new taxes in any

Eyes on Mississippi

by Bill Minor

bill put before him.

Tuck, who had kept her tax package completely under wraps until springing it on the Senate, maintained that the measure was "revenue-neutral," meaning that the loss of revenue from the grocery tax would be fully offset by the cig tax. That's doubtful, say some legislators because the grocery tax is part of the state's 7 percent general sales tax from which municipalities get a share under a complex formula.

For several years health advocates, backed by a statewide poll favoring increasing the state's 18-cent cigarette tax--the second lowest in the nation--had been rebuffed when they proposed a $1 hike in the levy.

Ironically, the House last year passed a 50-cent increase in the tobacco tax to prevent more than 50,000 needy recipients from being dropped from Medicaid, but Tuck saw to it that the bill stayed in a Senate pigeon-hole.

Cutting the onerous 7-cent state sales tax on groceries has long been advocated by this column, because it is a tax burden borne inequitably by the poorest of the poor in a state with the lowest per capita income.

But until Dick Molpus ran for governor in 1995 and made a reduction of the tax to 4 percent the chief plank in his platform, the idea had never gained any statewide traction. (And you remember what happened to him.)

The House earlier that same year came within three votes (it takes a three-fifths majority) of passing a grocery tax cut, with Republicans lining up to oppose the measure.

Tuck's grocery measure would cut the 7 cent rate to 4 and 1/2 cents this July 1, then to 3 1/2 cents July, 2007, and thereafter a 1/2 cent per year until eliminated by 2014. According to state Tax Commission estimates, it would cost the state general fund a total loss of $345.7 million.

Significantly, many states have no sales tax or a reduced rate on groceries. Mississippi now has the highest state levy on groceries but several rebuild. It's really impressive.

There's a bigger, older one -- at least, it looks bigger and older to me. Take Hwy. 90 west from Waveland and turn south on Lakeshore Rd. by the big alligator.

About half a mile before the end of the road, you'll see a lot of smaller live oaks on the right. The big one is about 200 yards back in that grove. Look closely -- you'll see it. There's a little street that goes right past it, but it may not be cleared yet.

People lived back in that grove -- people who cared about the trees and did what they could for them.

Those people's homes are gone, but the trees are still there. At least they were yesterday, but I heard before the storm that the property was being sold to developers to be clear-cut and the trees replaced by condominiums.

Let's see now -- one states are higher when you add in local sales taxes.

Since the arrival of Barbour, the most partisan governor to ever occupy the office, Mississippi's Legislature has been sharply divided along party lines for the first time in legislative history.

As the state slowly emerged from the 2001 economic recession, partisanship dangerously threw lawmakers into gridlock over providing revenue to protect key services from deep cuts. Even then, the Mississippi Adequate Education Program, the life-blood of public schools, remains underfunded and higher education is desperately trying to compensate for three years of cuts.

Until her tax gambit, Tuck had marched lock-step with Barbour's anti-tax mantra as well as his other ideas, and pushed the Senate, despite its slight Democratic majority, to hand Barbour absolute control of Mississippi's upper chamber.

This left the House, made up two-thirds of Democrats and staunchly allied behind battle-tested Speaker Billy McCoy, to become the bulwark against Barbour's domination of the legislative process.

Now with a whiff of discord between the two top administration leaders over taxes, the implications of Tuck's move may bring a welcomed softening of the partisan dynamic that has divided the two houses.

Several times the House has sent tax measures, including a 50 cent tobacco tax hike, to the Senate to prevent damaging budget cuts in education and social programs only to see the revenue measures die in the upper chamber.

Naturally, the immediate reaction around the Capitol after Tuck made her dramatic turnaround on taxes was to ask the question: What is she up to? What's she running for now that she's term-limited in her present job?

Governor is out of the question since Barbour can run for another term, and no one in his right mind would suggest she would try to oust him as the GOP nominee.

But Tuck is a total political animal and you can bet when the candidate list is made up in 2006, she'll be on it somewhere.

EPA job training grant comes to Coast in wake of Hurricane Katrina

THE ECHO

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) has recently announced the selection of the Mississippi Department of Quality (MDEQ) to receive a $200,000 brownfields job training grant. This new grant will be used to teach environmental-cleanup job skills to individuals living in the six coastal counties of Mississippi most ravaged by Hurricane Katrina.

The 576-hour training program will include courses in Hazardous Waste Operations and Emergency Response (HAZWOPER), construction skills, hazardous materials handling, introduction to underground storage tanks, lead and asbestos abatement, refresher courses, and field work. Students will be recruited from among residents of the six coastal counties impacted by Hurricane Katrina.

"We are pleased these grants will be used to train people for real jobs that will be of long-lasting importance. This training will not only enhance people's job skills but will also aid the restoration of South Mississippi," said Charles Chisolm, Executive Director of MDEQ.

The Brownfields Job Training Program is designed to provide individuals in brownfields-affected communities an opportunity to obtain employment in the environmental field, ensuring that the economic benefits derived from brownfields redevelopment remain in the affected communities. Since 1998,

EPA has nationally awarded over $20 million in brownfields job training funds, more than 2,600 people have completed training programs, and more than 1,600 have obtained employment in the environmental field, earning an average wage of $13 per hour.

The details of MDEQ's implementation of the grant funds and the application process for people interested in environmental clean-up training will be determined over the next few months. For more information, please contact Trey Hess at MDEQ, 601/961-5654.

EPA's Brownfields program encourages redevelopment of America's estimated 450,000 abandoned and contaminated waste sites. Since the beginning of the Brownfields Program, EPA has awarded more than 850 assessment grant totaling approximately $220 million, over 200 revolving loan fund grants totaling more than $183 million, and more than 230 cleanup grants totaling approximately $42 million. EPA's brownfields assistance has attracted more than $7.2 billion in private investment and helped attract more than 34,000 jobs.

tree is being honored as a "symbol," an equally fine tree is to be scrapped in favor of condos that no one around here wants. Am I missing something?

We just go moved back here from out of state so I've been out of touch.

The issue may have been resolved already. I hope so, anyway.

However, let's not take chances.

If you want to see a grand old tree, do it now and take a picture.

That may soon be all that's left of it.

Pearl River splits with Jones in South Division openers

Lady Wildcats lose 66-63, men hang on for 91-87 win

THE ECHO
Pearl River Community College split with rival Jones in both school's men's and women's MACJC South Division openers here Monday with the Lady Wildcats falling 66-63 and the Wildcats staving off second-half Bobcat comeback to take a 91-87 victory.

PRCC's men improved to 7-5 overall and 1-0 in division play, while its women fell to 1-11 and 0-1. The host Bobcats dropped to 2-7 and 0-1, while the Lady 'Cats improved to 6-5 and 1-0.

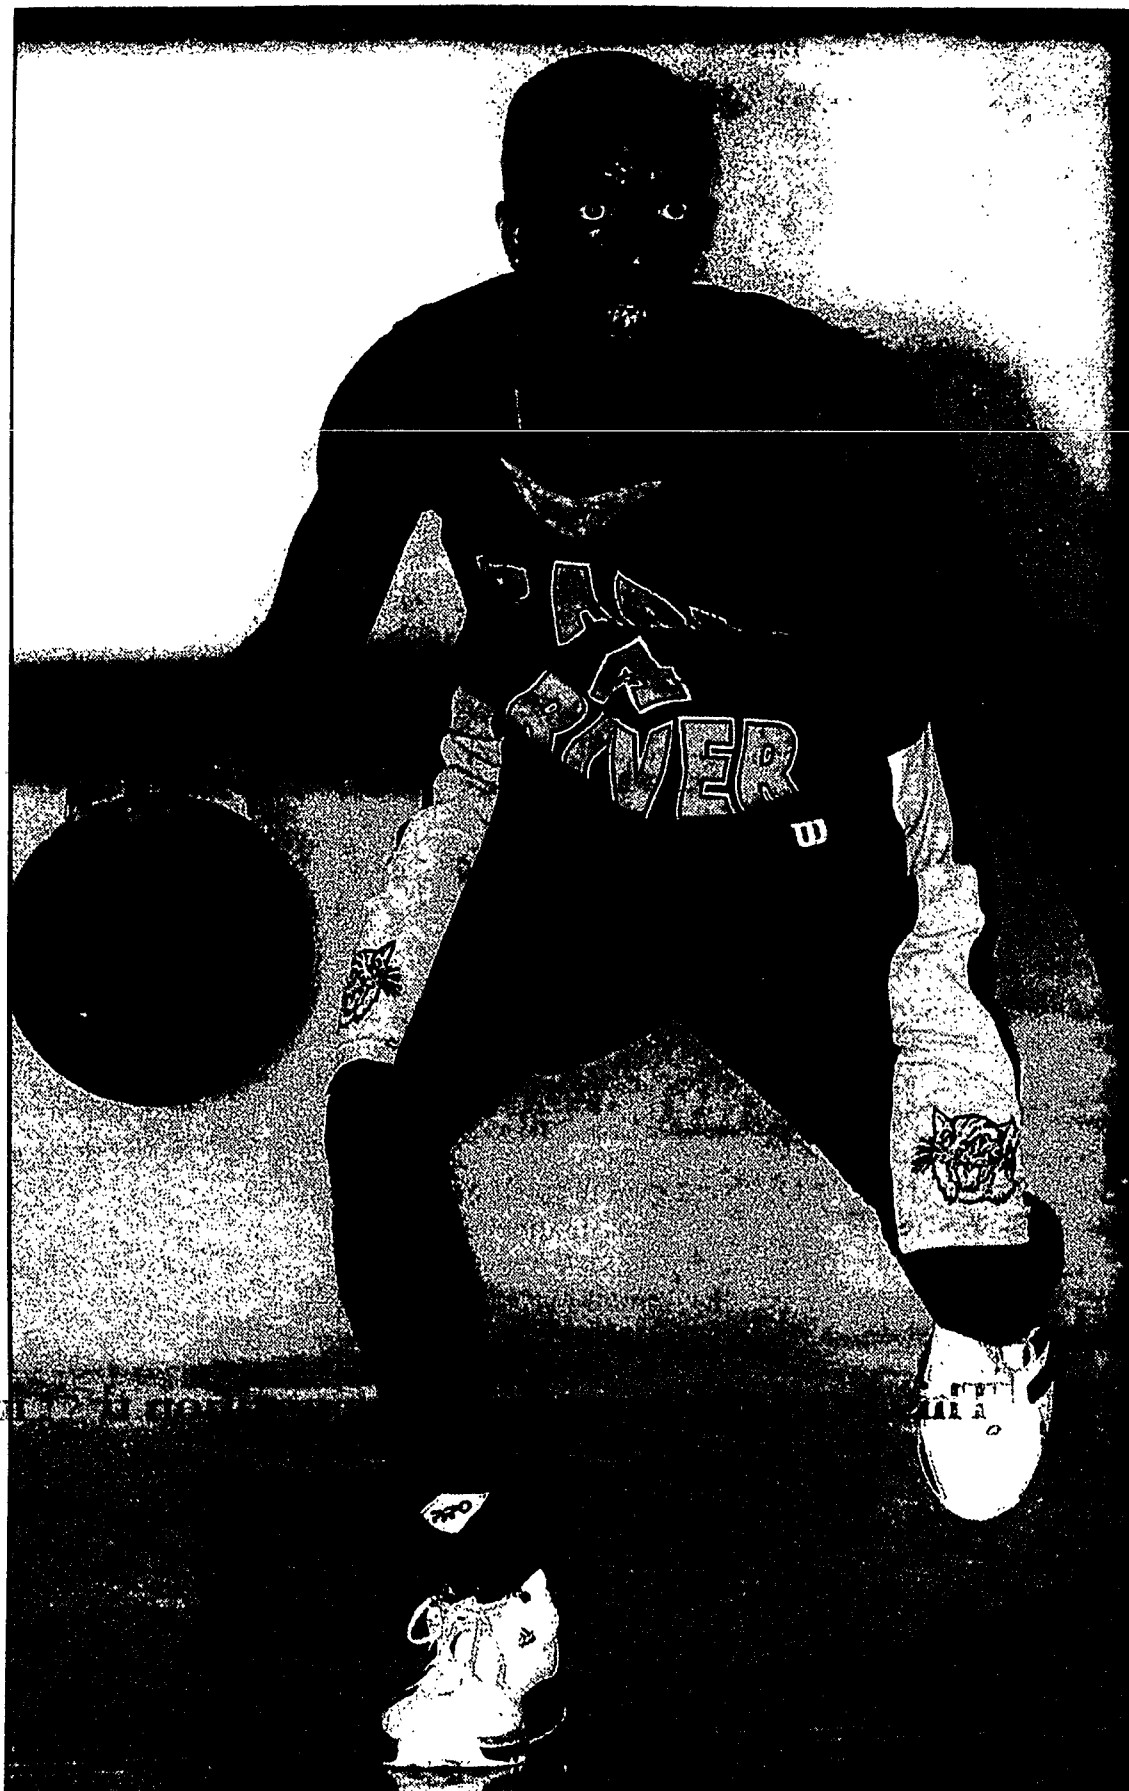

Lady Wildcat head coach Ed Walley got an improved effort from his squad with freshman forward Dee Robertson of North Forrest putting on a command performance with a career-high 18 points, complimented by a game-high 13 rebounds, six blocked shots, and five steals.

PRCC led for the first six minutes of the game, but JCJC's Ashley Green bucketed her only three pointer of the night at the 11:52 mark to put the Lady Bobcats up 11-10 and kick off a 13-6 run to give Jones its largest lead of the half at 24-16 with 5:50 left before the intermission.

Pearl River answered with a 13-2 scoring surge to regain the lead at 29-26 at the 1:39 mark, capped by a three-point play by point Tanesha Stokes of East Marion. The Lady Wildcats outscored the hosts 6-3 from that point to lead 35-29 at the half.

Jones opened the second half with a 12-3 run to regain the lead at 41-39, but PRCC fought back to get up 59-56 with 3:40 left off back-to-back buckets by Stokes. The Lady Bobcats closed out the battle with a 10-4 run to take the three-point victory.

Besides Robertson, who was nine of 13 from the field, LaTerrica Booth of Bassfield added 16 points and hauled in eight boards; while Stoke scored nine, Calla Daggins of Mereaux, La., eight, Brittany Blackston of Hattiesburg High and Angela Miller of Penbrooke, Ga., four each; and Ashley Jones of Florence and Shannon Primos of Forrest County AHS, two each. Kelsey Hopkins paced JCJC with 18 (eight rebounds), while Rosemary Green added 12 (seven rebounds), Chinita Steele 11 (six rebounds), Deanna Powe eight, Chelsey Sumrall seven (one trey), Ashley Green six (one trey), Kandace Russell three, and Courtney Thomas one.

Pearl River point Marquez Singleton (4) scored seven points and dished off six assists in the Wildcats' 91-87 South Division victory over Jones Monday in Ellisville. Singleton is a sophomore who prepped at Bay High in Bay St. Louis. PRCC's women fell 66-63 against JCJC.

The foul line played a huge role in the outcome, as PRCC sank seven of 11 (63.6 percent) of its attempts to JCJC's 18 of 29 (62.1 percent) effort. Pearl River was zero for 14 from three-point range, while JCJC was two of 18 (11.1 percent).

From the field, the Lady Wildcats were 28 of 67 (41.8 percent); while the Lady Bobcats were 23 of 67 (34.3 percent).

In the men's game, Jones fought back from a 28-point halftime deficit only to fall five points shy of victory.

Pearl River dominated in the first half, grabbing a commanding 57-29 lead at the half; but Jones outscored the Wildcats 58-34 in the second half.

Alton Robinson, a Colorado State signee from Hattiesburg High, paced the Wildcats with 26 points (12 rebounds), while Wesley Jones of Beatrice, Ala., added 19 and hauled in a game-high 17 boards. Jamar Flowers of White Castle, La., scored 16, Darius Acker of St. Stanislaus, Marquez Singleton of Bay High, and Chasen Uptain of Poplarville, seven a piece; Jacoby Rawls of Sumrall five, and Tyshawn Brown of Gulfport High an Jeremy Holder of Lumberton High, two each.

Bay nips SSC at the buzzer

BY JOSEPH W. GEX, II
Staff Writer

The Bay High Tigers (6-7, 2-2) and the St. Stanislaus Rock-a-chaws (2-4, 0-1) renewed their crosstown rivalry on January 6th at the Father Peter Mockler Gymnasium in front of a standing-room-only crowd.

For 32 minutes, the crowd was treated to an exciting and physical matchup between the two schools that are separated by just a mile of real estate.

The game was played on the campus of Our Lady Academy due to the damage that both schools incurred during Hurricane Katrina. Bay High does not have a home gymnasium while SSC is playing in the OLA gym across the street from the all-boys school.

Bay High head coach Will Seymour commented, "This was a huge win for the program - the biggest win I have been associated with. My hat's off to Jay Ladner and the Rock-a-chaws for such a tremendous game for the community. This is one where you hate to see a team lose. It was electric for the coaches, players and fans. It was the type of game that this community needed considering all that has happened in the past four months to the community and both schools."

The game started out at full-throttle and was non-stop until the final buzzer.

The Rocks and the Tigers were tied 14-14 at the end of the first period. The Rocks enjoyed a 26-24 lead at the break.

Following a fast-paced third period, the Tigers enjoyed a 36-34 lead over SSC.

The final period was no different from the first three. However, Quincy Hall of Bay High enjoyed the most success as he scored seven of the Tigers' nine points in

The Rocks took a 43-42 lead with 1:42 remaining on a Rick Dubuisson putback. The Rocks got the rebound off a missed Tiger shot and held the ball until the :09 mark when they were fouled.

The Rocks missed the front end of a 1-and-1 and the Tigers got the rebound. After a timeout, Brent Robinson brought the ball to the top of the key for Bay High where he dished to Hall in the wing who ripped the net for the game winner with no time left.

SSC head coach Jay Ladner stated, "We got the ball back up by one and had a senior at the line. We missed the front end and didn't get the rebound. Quincy Hall made a big shot for them. We have gotten better each week. We just need to get back to work and keep getting better. The atmosphere was a great one for all those involved. Both teams played very hard and it was very entertaining for the fans that packed the gym."

Mike Rice led the way for all scorers with 18 points while Quincy Hall paced the Tigers with 13 points.

On Saturday afternoon, the Rocks hosted St. Bernard/Chalmette Unified School. SSC won the contest 68-54 behind Mike Rice's 25 points.

Jeremiah Morgan added 12 points in the win. SSC was down at halftime 32-30.

Ladner continued, "I was very proud of our effort especially bouncing back from a gut-wrenching loss less than 24 hours earlier. We played our best basketball of the year in the third period as we outscored them 32-7."

An 8th and 9th grade game was played following the varsity game. The 8th grade Rocks lost 36-35 to John Curtis. Anthony Boswell scored 13 points followed by Eric Lynch's 10 points.

In 9th grade action, the Rocks pulled away late to win 58-45. Marcus Johnson scored 18 points to lead SSC followed by Bryon Butler with 15 and Mario Martinez with 12 points.

Kelton Thompson, head coach of the 8th and 9th grade Rocks, commented, "This is only their second game. We are just asking that the teams play with great effort and work hard in practice. As we get deeper into the season, the future will begin to look brighter for them."

Final recovery commission report goes to governor's office

THE ECHO

As promised, the Governor's Commission on Recovery, Rebuilding, and Renewal delivered its final report to Governor Haley Barbour before the end of the year that saw Hurricane Katrina devastate so much of South Mississippi. The next step: incorporating Commission recommendations into advice and support for affected communities.

"I have reviewed the report extensively, and am eager to share it with all Mississippians as we face the critical decisions that lie ahead," said Governor Barbour.

The 190-page report, "After Katrina: Building Back Better than Ever," contains over 200 separate recommendations, and is the product of three months of intensive research and public discussions sponsored by the privately funded Governor's Commission. The Commission called upon the talents of more than 500 volunteers who contributed more than 50,000 hours to the effort. Dozens of town hall meetings gave local citizens the opportunity to voice their views of what their region should become. Eleven committees addressed specific areas of concern from agriculture and forestry to defense contracting to the future of tourism. Jim Barksdale, the Mississippi native and former Netscape CEO who headed the Commission, called it "the greatest outpouring of public spirit and unselfish labor I've ever experienced."

The final report presents the committees' assessment of hurricane damage and their recommendations for not only restoring what was lost but for doing it in a way that responds to the governor's charge to build back "better than ever." Among the committees' recommendations are proposals for at least partially regionalizing transportation policy, some public services, and tourism development efforts. There are strong arguments for building and zoning codes that not only require safer structures and more storm-aware development patterns but that also encourage more pedestrian-friendly streets and a better mix of commercial, office, and residential uses in rebuilt neighborhoods. The Finance Committee report includes suggested ways communities can tap into federal, state, and private funding sources to accomplish some of the report's goals, and there's an authoritative analysis of what leaders and citizens must think about to prepare for other major storms.

With the delivery of this final report, the research and recommendation phase is over. "Now," said Barksdale, "it's up to the communities to consider and act on these recommendations. After listening to all those voices and embracing their deepest concerns, we would find it unconscionable if their hopes go unrealized because their leaders failed to make the hard choices and commit the full resources necessary to move from great ideas to meaningful action."

Governor Barbour said, "Jim Barksdale and members of the Commission have rendered an extraordinary public service in the aftermath of the worst natural disaster in our nation's history. I am grateful for their willingness to tackle these difficult issues as Mississippians embark on an unprecedented process of rebuilding and renewal."

By mid-January, printed versions of the Commission's final report will be distributed to officials in the hurricane-affected areas. By midweek next week, the complete report and all supporting documents will be available on the Commission website: www.governorscommission.com.

Emergency Food and Shelter Program Hancock County, MS Notice

Hancock County, MS has been awarded $23,185 in federal funds under the Emergency Food and Shelter National Board program to supplement emergency food and shelter programs locally in 2006.

The selection was made by a national board that is chaired by the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) and consists of representatives from the Salvation Army; American Red Cross; United Jewish Communities; Catholic Charities, USA; National Council of the churches of Christ in the USA; and the United Way of America. The board distributes funds to help expand food and shelter programs in high-need areas of the county.

A local board made up of community leaders and representatives of the United Way and other charitable organizations will determine how the funds are to be distributed in Hancock County.

Under the terms of the grant from the National Board, local agencies chosen to receive funds must: (1) be private voluntary non-profits or units of government, (2) have an accounting system, (3) practice nondiscrimination, (4) have demonstrated the capability to deliver emergency food and/or shelter programs, and (5) if they are a private voluntary organization, they must have a voluntary board. Agencies must use these funds to supplement and expand existing services aimed at providing emergency food and shelter in Hancock County, MS and not as a substitute for other program funds or to start new programs. Qualifying agencies are urged to apply.

Emergency food and shelter funds for Hancock County have been previously been distributed to Catholic Social Services, Diocese of Biloxi, the Hancock County Food Pantry and the St. Vincent de Paul Societies in the area.

Public or private voluntary agencies interested in applying for Emergency Food and Shelter Program funds must contact the Diamondhead Community Church at 228-255-2556 for an application.
